

French Challies.
and narrow satin stripes,
dots, scroll, convention-
al and cadet blue, plum,
olive greys, green, cream
per yard.

reery & Co.,

wear.

SILK AND NAINSOOK.

Dresses, Short Skirts, Corset
with lace, embroidery, rib-bing, and ruffles,—including, — $1.25 & $1.50 Each.

Greery & Co.,
Third Street.

---

Department.

Hand-embroidered on
starched.—22½x36 inches,
per pair;
price $2.35.

—do—, 66 inches wide, — 50c. yd.
68 " " 65 & 75c. "

—do—, 22x22 in., $1.50 doz.

e. fringed, $1.50 dozen.
l. pure Linen, $2.40 pr. dozen.
en, fringed, 23x45, $3.00 dz.

k ..... $5.00 each
               $6.00 "
               $7.00 "
 and Table Cloths, latest

Leery & Co.,
 411 First Street.

fore with this person at all, and he is corroborated by the fact that one of the details of the transaction by the witnesses. Osborne, James and the plaintiff all agree that there was no direct conflict with that given by the plaintiff. Moreover, when the testimony of the plaintiff is taken, he is not asked to disclose any movement of his body. If any movement of his body is shown, it is not mentioned by any force upon the part of the defendant.

The defendant's cross-examination was a severe and vigorous one. And while perhaps the plaintiff's counsel was not permitted to go beyond the dignified limits of a proper cross-examination, it is not to be denied that the cross-examination was a cardinal principle of our jurisprudence that a rich and powerful man should not be allowed to oppress the wealth of the one nor the poverty of the other of the law. Evidence of the wealth of a man is never admitted directly or otherwise, and the position of the one or the other of wealth or poverty is necessarily involved in the case.

It is impossible to consider the plaintiff's injuries without a feeling of profound sympathy for the plaintiff and a feeling of indignation at the administration of the law. It is utterly baseless upon any principle of justice to allow a man to be injured and neither courts nor juries are justified in victimizing its influence.

ALFRED SULLY WINS.

—Court of Appeals' Decision in His Favor in Russell Sage Case.

Mr. Russell Sage was not the only Wall street magnate who was yesterday made happy by a judgment of the Court of Appeals. The court also handed down a decision in favor of Alfred Sully, the well-known railroad man, in an action brought against him by William Robertson & Co. for the non-payment of a note for $100,000, with a guaranty of $75,000, made in 1888. The suit involved an interesting question in the law of suretyship, and incidentally about $90,000 in money. The guaranty was made on behalf of the American Cattle Company, an English corporation owning cattle ranches in the State of Texas, and in which many well-known Englishmen, including several members of the House of Lords, were largely interested.

Mr. Sully guaranteed the payment of the company's debt, and afterward, without his consent, the debt and interest were sold to a mercantile agent, and it was argued that should be done in the event of Sully's default, and compensating other provisions, which, as Mr. Sully claimed, discharged him from his obligation as a surety. The matter has been in litigation since, and was finally decided in favor of Sully, before the late Daniel C. Roglin, of the New York bar, was called to the bench.

ally for the full amount claimed, which was afterward affirmed by the unanimous decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Sully desisted the money in court and took an appeal to the Court of Appeals, where he was elaborately argued last November. Messrs. Elihu Root and Frank B. Lawton appearing as counsel for Mr. Sully and Messrs. Shuman, Larocque & Choate representing the plaintiffs. The Court of Appeals yesterday rendered a decision reversing the judgment of both the lower courts and fully sustaining Mr. Sully's defence.

---

f Strength

strongest man in the
my strength is per-
genuine Johann Hoff's greatly aids me in the

HOFF'S Malt Extract

